

Members of the 30%+ Club Australia Education Working Group

Juliet Bourke (Chair)
Joanne Butterworth-Gray
Deborah Daly
Cheryl Hayman
Christine Holman
Genevieve Overell
Tony Johnson
Helen Rowell
Paul Zahra

Deloitte Australia

Tom Imbesi (Chair) Tharani Jegatheeswaran David Rodgers Rebecca Donelly

Setting the scene: Recapping the key f ndings from the Bold Moves in the Boardroom report

For the Bold Moves in the Boardroom report, 30%+ Club Australia and Deloitte Australia interviewed 31 leading members of the board community, along with representatives from investors and search fa gzhc Wdhi fY h\Y]f c\YgYfj Uh]cbg'Ub\X']bg][\hg as to the capabilities required by the boards of the future. The report observed that board directors are predominantly still drawn from a relatively narrow set of backgrounds, such as ex-CEOs and CFOs, with less than 8% (as at 2021) previously holding roles such as 7\]YZ\DZcfa Uh]cb'C \Wfz7\]YZA Uf_Yh]b['C \Wf'cf'7\]YZDYcd'Y'C \Wf''

A cfYcj Yfžh\]g'dfc `Y'Wff]Yg'U\]XXYb X]j Yfg]hm implication as the disciplines of marketing/customer and human capital are female dominated, whereas ex-CEOs and ex-CFOs are more likely to be men. In other words, opening up the skill-base of boards to enable greater diversity of thinking might also assist with boards' gender diversity aspirations.

Hc 'UXXfYgg'h\ YgY' bX]b[gž6c`X'A cj Yg']b'h\ Y' Boardroom made the following six recommendations for action:

- Open a discussion at the board table to scope the future context and the implications for board composition in terms of skillset
- 2. Invite an independent review of existing capabilities, skills and traits to ensure future bygg
- 3. 6fcUXYb 'h\ Y 'Vf]YZ'UbX 'gYUfW\ ']b 'bYk ' Y 'Xg'Zcf' missing capabilities and skills
- 4. Audit nomination processes and outcomes with a j]Yk 'bc 'Z h fY' bbYgg
- Tell the story of actions taken and those planned, fc Ybgi fY Z h fY bYgg

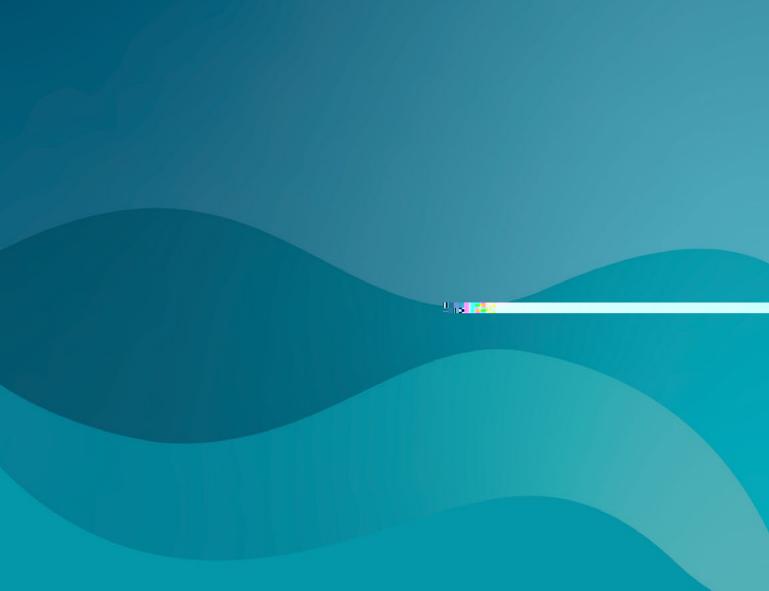

Nourishing the green shoots: Prof ling the f ve compelling case studies

The 30%+ Club Australia and Deloitte Australia appointment of non-executive directors (ie between backgrounds in customer/marketing, digital or human governance acumen, a fundamental for any board specialist knowledge and experience that they brought to the board table.

The new appointees, together with their board chair, shared their perspectives on why they were appointed, their skills and attributes, any integration challenges

ive gree	n shoots of change in the boardroom Review
Т	he organisation: Cuscal is the largest independent provider of digital payment solutions to the
Т	he strategic imperative:
C	lear that what we needed was somebody with technology, data and AI experience," says Proust. More
"r	nuance" to digital discussions and decision-making in a way that a generalist director cannot, enabling

green shoots of char	nge in the boardroom Review
The organisa	ation: Lifestyle Communities is an ASX 200 company which builds retirement communities
The strategi	c imperative:
me strategi	e imperative.

So what? Identifying new insights and implications for Australian boards

1. Innovation at the fringe e-

3. Accelerative potential between March 2022 and March 2023, with the interviews conducted in September to November 2023. Notwithstanding, the relatively short timeframe to create impact, each of the chairs spoke about the accelerative potential of diversity of thinking in their boardrooms. In particular, they spoke to an immediate positive impact on conversations with fellow directors and management, as well as enhanced strategic thinking and decision-making.

Indeed, their now demonstrable ability to adapt and non-traditional appointment (including, in one case, insistent on making a generalist appointment), seems to have invested these exemplar boards with new energy and momentum, in addition to expanded specialist expertise. According touthe4nteeviewAes, t

The 30%+ Club Australia and Deloitte Australia would like to thank the 10 interviewees who took part in the case studies for this review. In sharing their stories and experiences, they are contributing to the evolution of boards and accelerating the momentum for greater diversity and organisational success.

For more insights on boards of the future, click here to read the Bold Moves in the Boardroom report.